LEGISLATIVE WORK

FAP's public policy division leads our movement's efforts in statehouses nationwide. In 2017, animal advocates faced a wave of attacks by Big Ag and their allied lawmakers. We mobilized and fought back, with impressive results.

April:

We led successful efforts to thwart a "Right to Farm" constitutional amendment in West Virginia that would have made it impossible for lawmakers and residents to ban even the cruelest agricultural practices, such as extreme confinement.

In Oklahoma, HSUS and our allies stopped a "prosperity district" bill that would have exempted swaths of the state from anti-cruelty protections. (Note that nationwide, lawmakers' interest in this type of bill appears to have decreased dramatically - likely because of our early victories against such bills.)

June:

Maine's anti-HSUS governor, Paul LePage, pushed for a measure aimed at "outing" undercover investigators. HSUS led the fight to stop it, and succeeded.

July:

The California cattle industry attempted to establish a new state beef commission with authority to engage in policy work. Undoubtedly, one of the commission's priorities would have been to undermine animal protection efforts. But working with our allies, we stopped the legislation.

Spring:

In Missouri and Indiana, HSUS worked with local groups to block legislation that would have made it easier for CAFOs to expand.

Ongoing through 2017:

HSUS led the ongoing fight against the King Amendment, which threatens to gut animal protection laws nationwide.

INSTITUTIONAL OUTREACH

We've found that the most efficient way to help farm animals is working with foodservice companies, schools, hospitals, the military, and other large food serving organizations to reduce their meat purchases by replacing animal-based meals with plant-based meals. Our team is staffed with veteran industry professionals, dietitians, and campaigners who work in partnership with these institutions.

MEAT REDUCTION POLICIES

In 2017, we worked with the following institutions to implement programs like Meatless Monday, Lean & Green, or add more plant-based options to their menus and reduce their meat purchases. Highlights include:

- Working with Aramark (the largest U.S.-based food service company) to announce an in-depth partnership including chef training, menu development, and tracking and reporting meat purchases.
- Announcing with Compass Group (the world's largest food service company) an in-depth partnership including trainings, menu development, and expansion of its all-vegan dining restaurant to campuses nationwide.
- Moving Palomar Health to commit to making 60% of all its menus plant-based in all of its 4 hospitals.
- Partnering with Fresh Ideas Food Service Management, which operates 100 university and healthcare cafeterias to create plant-based menus that will roll out nationwide Fall of 2018 and train its chefs.

FORWARD FOOD LEADERSHIP SUMMITS

We created one-day symposia for food service professionals to learn from industry leaders and peers about meeting the demand for plant-based meals and marketing healthy foods.

In 2017, we hosted 7 Leadership Summits, attracting more than 400 attendees, including at: University of Pittsburgh, University of British Columbia, Washington State University, Georgia State University, Rutgers University, University of Colorado, Boulder and Ithaca College.

These events have been majorly successful. After the workshop with University of Pittsburgh, for example, the school's dining team created a fully plant-based station called Forward Food after HSUS' program.

“HSUS’ Forward Food events, along with their partnership in creating our plant-forward “Rooted” dining experience, has helped propel Compass Group to being the leading food service company balancing ethical, social and environmental responsibility with commercial success. With our scale, we can create massive positive impact for people, animals and planet.”

–Susie Weintraub, Executive Vice President, Compass Group

MEDIA

A key component of our campaign is putting animal welfare and plant-based eating in the spotlight by pitching stories about to news media, writing op-eds, hosting cooking demonstrations on TV and sharing our institutional partners' success which makes animal welfare and plant-based eating more mainstream to the general public and the food industry. Our Senior Food and Nutrition Manager appeared multiple times on Univision's Despierta America (the #1 weekday early morning program with more viewers that ABC's Good Morning America, CBS's This Morning, and NBC's Today Show--combined), reaching millions of Spanish-speaking viewers with positive messaging about plant-based eating.

A full list of media hits is too lengthy to include here. It is included below as Appendix C.

Administration (3), Food and Nutrition (21), Public Policy (4), Corporate Policy (2)

Has your organization received any major (>20% of its budget) grants in the last two years?

Yes; one.

If your organization receives any restricted donations, approximately how much did it receive in the past year, and what programs did it support?

100% of our funds are from restricted donations to HSUS for our team. 100% of funding for Food & Nutrition Division is from restricted donations not just to FAP, but to this division within FAP. Also, please note that FAP pays for salaries for farm animal attorneys and a media person, too, all of whom work in non-FAP divisions at HSUS.

If your organization has any revenue-generating programs, it would be helpful for us to know what those programs are and how much revenue they generated in the past year.

None.

Does your organization have a strategic plan? If so, can we see it?

We're developing one at the end of 2018 when our California ballot measure and King amendment campaigning will likely be completed and we'll know more about the future potential opportunities.

This year, we will be conducting two brief anonymous conversations about work culture with staff members who are not in leadership roles at your organization. We will reach out to them directly. If it's not available on your website, a list of core staff/volunteers and their email addresses and/or phone numbers would be very helpful!
